TELECOMMUNICATION troubles between Bangkok and Rangoon have delayed shipment of relief supplies from the Thai Red Cross to Burma.

Thai Red Cross spokesman Suwan Pimolsaengsuriya yesterday said the Thai Red Cross had been trying for over a week to contact Rangoon via telex and telegraph, but without any response.

He said the Thai Red Cross wanted to know the kinds of medical supplies that were needed in Rangoon.

The Burmese Red Cross earlier approached the Thai Foreign Ministry asking for medical assistance.
